

CUPE COMMUNITY HEALTH WORKERS

Better Care. Healthier Communities.

September 8, 2022

CBA negotiations to resume on September 12

Since pausing negotiations in June, six working groups made up of representatives from both union and employer sides have been working to develop recommendations around new certifications, occupational health and safety, decolonizing the collective agreement, and more. This work will now help streamline the bargaining process as we head back to the table on September 12.

As bargaining resumes, it's more important than ever that our union has up-to-date contact information for all Community Health members – particularly in the event that we cannot reach an agreement with HEABC and have to take a strike vote. You can review and update your information here.

If you know of any of your co-workers who are not receiving these updates from our union, please ask them to update their information.

In solidarity,

Your Community Bargaining Association (CBA) Negotiating Committee